Bio

Miami native Gloria G. Sollecito, author of design blog Artful Kitchens, is a kitchen and bath designer with AKBD certification from the National Kitchen & Bath Association (NKBA). The Artful Kitchens blog is a delightful and informative combination of art and design applying the concept of artfulness to both function and aesthetics in the kitchen and bath. Working in the K&B industry for over 20 years has given her a keen eye for new trends. Sponsored visits to trade shows and brand headquarters furnishes her with in depth knowledge of new products which is shared with her readers and followers. An untempered drive for creative expression has resulted in not only a long successful career in design but also in a lifetime crafting images in the written word. Her design consultation business is located in Palm Beach County, Florida. Gloria's unique vision blends her work as a mixed media artist and avid world traveler.
